Sermon Discussion

What Is Revelation All About?
Revelation 1:1-8

Discussion 1

As we start Revelation, discuss what you have been taught about the book of Revelation, your own views, and what questions you have about the book? Here are the four general views throughout church history. How many of these have you heard taught?

- Preterist View - Revelation is about events in the past, namely the fall of Jerusalem in 70AD.
- Historicist View - Revelation is about ages in church history. The symbols refer to specific historical events (always in the history of American/European Church)
- Futurist View - Revelation, apart from chapters 1-3 are about the future. Generally this view interprets the visions literally and chronologically.
- Redemptive Historical View - Revelation is a symbolic presentation of the battle between good and evil. All the symbols are for events in every age and are for all believers.

Discussion 2

In the opening chapter of Revelation John's use of the number "seven" (a number in Scripture that often references completeness) is significant in that it represents the universal church. Given John's emphasis here on the universal church how does this influence the way we think of the church today? Is our understanding often limited to our local congregation, or perhaps to other congregations with which we are familiar? How can we adjust our vision to see the church more broadly as God sees it?

Discussion 3

If we look at Zech. 4:2-7 he refers to the seven lamps as representing one Spirit bringing grace for the building of Israel's second temple. John represents this same Spirit as building the temple of the church. How can we learn to appreciate more profoundly what it means that the Holy Spirit is building the church into a temple?(Ephesians 2:17-22) Is He often an ignored person in the process? What connection does 1 Cor. 3:16-17 and 6:19 make between the Spirit's work in the church and the life of the church?

Discussion 4

Verse 8 identifies God as "the Alpha and the Omega," terms that denote completeness and sovereignty. One of the main themes of Revelation is God's sovereignty over suffering? In Revelation, God is even the cause of suffering in sending seals, trumpets, and bowls (see Zech 1:6-18; Ezek 14:21; Rev 6:2-8). When you think of the suffering, either your own or that of others, is God's sovereignty a comfort? or does it just raise questions about whether he cares for you or not?

Discussion 5

How do we understand the concept of Jesus' "coming" to His church throughout the course of history (as opposed to His final coming)? How might the idea of Jesus continually coming affect the way in which we live as Christians and conduct our church life today?
