Sermon Discussion

The entire universe is pictured as having its center in God's throne, with angelic and human creatures subject to the One who sits on it. Just count all the times "throne" appears in the chapter. All the judgments of the subsequent chapters issue from the throne. How do we express our understanding of God's sovereignty in our day-to-day lives? Does it do justice to the vision John saw?

In verses 10-11, the twenty-four elders fall down before God and worship Him, casting their crowns before the throne. How does this act of worship relate to other instances of worship in Revelation (e.g., Revelation 5:9-14; 7:11-12; 11:16-17)? What does this repetitive theme of worship tell us about the character and worthiness of God? Would you feel awkward to be in a church that worshipped this way?

Angels play a key role in the book of Revelation. In this chapter. The living creatures around the throne have different faces (a lion, an ox, a human, and an eagle) and are covered in eyes. What theological themes might these symbols represent? In Rev 7:1-3 they control natural forces. In Rev 8:6-13 they unleash judgement. And in Rev 12:7-9 (Dan 10:13) they are depicted to be in conflict with other beings. An angel even binds Satan in Rev 20:1-2. Discuss the role of angels in history and in a believer's life.

Can we use what we see of heavenly worship here to help us in our understanding of what earthly worship should be? How does it affect the substance of what we say, pray, or sing? How do we work out the differences between outward forms of worship, which may be relative (styles or types of music, for instance), and the inward heart of worship (its focus on Christ and on God), which must never change?
